114 Candidates; 10 Issues on Fayette Ballots

Residents of Washington C. H. and Fayette County will go to the polls Tuesday in an off-year election involving 114 candidates and 10 special issues.

Only five of the issues, three of them on the state level, will be presented to both city and county voters.

After simmering for several weeks, the political pot started boiling furiously last week, with most of the heat under it coming from the battle for Fayette County and Miami Trace district school boards.

Whether deluge of words, both spoken or printed, will bring out a heavy vote is yet to be seen. Those directly involved are inclined to think the vote will be heavy; others, who view it from a distance are not so sure.

HAROLD MCLEAN, clerk of the board of elections, Monday morning said he thought the vote will be light. This prediction was based partly on the number of absent voter ballots, of which 73 were taken out for voters out of the county, voters confined to their homes by illness and voters in the armed forces away from home. Only two have not been voted and filed with the board.

The Record-Herald office will be open throughout the evening—until final tabulations on major races and issues are completed.

Anyone is welcome to call in person at the office, although latest returns will be made available by telephone to those interested.

Please dial 9701 or 3-5291 for election information.

6 Collegians Arrested in Celebration

ALL voters also will vote on a Municipal Court judge, with Judge Max G. Dice, running for reelection, as the only candidate, and three proposals to amend the state constitution. These a m e n dments would permit voters to approve a county charter form of government liberalizing the voting requirements for president and permit appointment to state office persons not having qualifications of an elector.

That's where the common meeting ground for all Fayette Countians ends—the two hospital issues, the Municipal Court judge and the three state amendment proposals.

But that does not mean there are plenty of other issues and no candidates awaiting the decision of the voters.

Washington C. H. voters will elect four members of Council from a field of 22 candidates, one of the biggest in years, and two members of the school board from among the four candidates.

FOUR of the villages will elect entire councils of six members. In Milledgeville there are 12 candidates, in Jeffersonville 10, in Bloomingburg nine and in Octa six, just enough to fill all the seats.

The four villages also will elect mayors and other village officials and Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg each will name a Board of Public Affairs, chief duty of which is to run the town waterworks. Neither Milledgeville nor Octa have such a board.

Two trustees will be elected for each of the 10 townships. There is competition for these seats in only six of them.

BUT IT HAS been in the county outside of Washington C. H. that the campaign has been hottest. Here the voters will name three members for the county school board from among six candidates and two from among four for the Miami Trace district school board.

Voters outside the city also will decide whether the Miami Trace school board shall have an additional 2-mill tax for operations for the next three years. It requires a majority for passage.

In Washington C. H. the voters will decide whether the present 2-mill levy for operations shall be extended for another five years. This requires a majority for passage.

UNION TOWNSHIP residents will vote on an $8,000 bond issue proposal to pay their share of the purchase and improvement of ad-

Father Fined after Accident Which Killed Baby Daughter

ROBERT Giffin, 25, of Greenfield, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Max G. Dice in Municipal Court Monday on a reckless driving charge resulting from an Oct. 23 accident in which Mifflin's 3-month-old daughter, Charlotte Kay, was killed.

The charge was filed Saturday by Sheriff Orland Hays after consulting with County Prosecutor Rollo

Marchant. Giffin pleaded guilty

The accident occurred on the CCC highway east at the intersection of State Route 238 (Bloomingburg Rd.)

Giffin's car hit the rear of another auto, stopped to make a turn, and careened off into the side of a car headed the other direction.

Giffin was taking the child to a Columbus Hospital where she was to be treated for a heart ailment, when the mishap occurred.

Both Giffin and his wife were injured in the mishap. The baby died about 15 minutes after the crash of a skull fracture.

The test was described by Police Chief John Ross as routine in order to verify a statement Ross took Saturday night from Walter E. Davis, unemployed father of two.

The victim, Mrs. Sidney M. Price, 84, was found Saturday morning in her home.

Davis told police he became enraged when Mrs. Price refused to give him money and struck her from behind while she sat watching television, took $2 from her purse, and ransacked a dresser.

Davis' wife, Lucille, is Mrs. Price's only grandchild.

Space-Traveling Dog 'OK' Aboard Russia's Sputnik II

MOSCOW (R)—The Soviet Union reported today that its space-traveling dog was faring well inside the half-ton rocket satellite circling the earth just over 1,000 miles out in space.

Moscow radio said the small, fluffy-haired passenger inside Sputnik II survived the shock of being blasted into space and her breathing, heartbeat and blood pressure were normal.

Housed in an air-conditioned cage the dog hurtled around the earth at 17,840 miles an hour.

Signals from two radios in the satellite are sending scientific data about the dog's reactions and space conditions, the Russians said. Monitors picked up a "beep, beep" on one frequency and a hissing sound from another.

As the spectacular achievement signaled the opening of the era of space travel, a Soviet scientist hinted the dog may parachute safely back to earth.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said that Soviet scientists may send apes up in future satellites to study biological effects of space travel.

In Oslo, Norway, the newspaper Dagbladet said today the Russians plan to send up 25 space rockets from the Franz Josef Land on the Antarctic continent, 70 from the central region of the Soviet Union, and 20 from the Soviet Antarctic station Mirny during the International Geophysical Year.

The paper gave the Russian monthly, the Soviet Union, as the source of its information.

The report said the rockets will not carry satellites, but will either release parachute-borne instruments or just zoom through the outer atmosphere sending signals as they go.

In another technological claim, the Soviet government announced that it had put into operation "the largest passenger aircraft in the world," powered by four prop-jet engines. The announcement said the plane can transport 120 passengers from Moscow to New York in 10 to 12 hours.

The Russians originally announced that Sputnik II, launched at about 11:38 p.m. Saturday EST, was in an orbit reaching 923 miles out. Later this maximum distance was revised to 1,056 miles.

The new satellite weighs 1,120 pounds and circles the earth in 103.7 minutes, the Russians said. The first Soviet satellite, launched Oct. 4, weighs 184 pounds, has an orbit reaching out 560 miles, moves at 18,000 miles an hour and circles the earth every 96.2 minutes.

Sputnik I, still circling although its radio now is dead, is a globe sent aloft by a three-stage rocket.

Two pieces of the rocket apparently still are orbiting with it.

The second satellite, described by the Russians as "the last stage of the carrier rocket," apparently is shaped like a rocket.

Instruments aboard Sputnik II were reported designed to send information about cosmic, ultra violet and X-rays, temperature and pressure and measurements of the earth.

Meanwhile, Pravda said Russia's stepped up program for training engineers had a lot to do with the satellite launches.

"The number of engineering graduates in the Soviet Union rose from 36,000 in 1950 to 71,000 in 1956," the Communist party newspaper declared. "In the United States it fell during the same period from 53,000 to 26,000."

The Soviet announcement of its big, new passenger aircraft said the prop-jet plane, called the TU-114, has a telephone system, a restaurant for 48 people and two elevators. The four-engine ship can carry 220 persons on flights of from 800 to 900 miles and 170 on medium-range flights, the official news release said.

Khrushchev Appears Unchallengeable

PUBLIC UNIMPRESSED BY ZHUKOV'S OUSTER

MOSCOW (R)—The position of Khrushchev as top man in the Soviet Union appeared unchallengeable today following the political disgrace of Marshal Georgi

Military leaders and journals of the armed forces were quick to endorse the expulsion of the former defense minister from the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee and from its ruling Presidium.

Crowds jamming Moscow streets in advance of the celebration Thursday of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution displayed little interest in the fate of the World War II hero. Their attention appeared captured by the launching of Sputnik II, the preparations for the twoday anniversary holiday, and reductions in the price of pork, ducks and geese.

The announcement of the marshal's degradation had been expected since soon after his dismissal from the post of defense minister was revealed Oct. 26.

THE PARTY Central Committee finally announced Saturday night that he had been stripped of his party posts.

The announcement added that he would be given a new job but did not say what it would be. Presumably he will get some obscure post in a remote location, as V. M. Molotov and Georgi Malenkov did following their similar disgrace last summer.

As expected, the Central Committee said the marshal was guilty of trying to liquidate the party's control of the armed forces and of trying to establish a "cult of personality" centered on himself. He was also charged with a "tendency to adventurism in his understanding and evaluation of the most important problems of foreign policy."

Reds Rule Budapest Without Opposition

VIENNA (R)—Hungary's Communist rulers had all their own weight in Budapest today—the first anniversary of the Soviet army attack that crushed last year's anti-Russian revolution.

The evidence that has come in so far from some locals in Ohio authenticates that statement," the aide reported. "That is, certain locals in Ohio did not comply with their constitution."

The aide declined to specify locals. In Ohio, the locals included those in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Dayton.

McClellan's questionnaire had asked that all reports on the financing and election of Teamster delegates to the convention be turned in by Nov. 1.

However, the aide said that not all of the material has yet been received from Ohio locals, as well as others in the Central Conference of Teamsters.

"We're not pressing them" he said, "because lawyers for the Central Conference have objected to some parts of the questionnaire on legal grounds."

Latest Soviet Science Step Being Analyzed

Astronomist Believes Russians Already May Have Fired at Moon

WASHINGTON (R)—The White House said today President Eisenhower and his science and national security advisers are very carefully analyzing the significance of Russia's new satellite, both in terms of rocketry development and scientific advance.

The terse statement came amid a renewed congressional clamor for a speed up in the U. S. missile and satellite programs. This included an appeal by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) that Eisenhower call a special session of Congress and ask it to establish a new Cabinet post of secretary of science.

But Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, told reporters:

"SO FAR AS I know there are no plans for a special session of Congress."

The White House statement regarding the Soviet Union's second Sputnik said:

"The executive branch is analyzing this very carefully, both as to what it means in terms of rocketry and also as to its scientific significance."

The reference to scientific significance of the new satellite underscored the deep interest in the fact that the new sputnik is carrying a live dog.

The Soviet Union's second earth satellite roared aloft about 11:38 p.m. EST Saturday. An American scientist says the Russians already may have launched a rocket at the moon.

Clyde Tombaugh, discoverer of the planet Pluto, explained that "they would have to start several days ahead of impact time to travel by the most economical method."

Because of the letter written by Miss Holmes, an alert had been put out in southern Georgia for Foutty, and pictures of him were circulated by the FBI. A Valdosta, Ga., policeman saw and answered the description of Foutty's go past the police station there, pursued it and caught Foutty four blocks away. Miss Holmes was with him.

Nov. 7 is the anniversary of the Russian Revolution. There has been speculation the Russians would try to celebrate the occasion by sending a rocket to the moon. Tombaugh said four Las Cruces, N. M., members of the astronomical society will set up a round-the-clock watch before, during and after the lunar eclipse of Nov. 7 that they may already have fired.

Probers Eye U. S. Scientific Program

WASHINGTON (R)—A House group started hearings today on whether there's fumbling in the government's use of scientists.

The inquiry, by the Manpower Utilization subcommittee of the House Civil Service Committee, was arranged months ago, long before Russia's two satellite launches turned increased attention toward this country's scientific efforts.

Committee sources said the probe will look into interservice rivalry over missile development, the dual supervision of military and civilian personnel and the duplication of responsibility.

Ohio Population Tops 9 Million, Census Says

WASHINGTON (R)—In the six-year period from the 1950 census to July 1, 1956, Ohio has had a population growth of 1,125,000.

This was disclosed by the Census Bureau Sunday in its latest state-by-state population estimates. The increase boosted Ohio's population to 9,071,000, or a jump of 14.2 per cent over the 1950 figure of 7,946,627.

6 Collegians Arrested in Celebration

CLEVELAND (AP)—After five football losses in a row, Baldwin-Wallace collegians liked the traditional victory ring of the chapel tower bell well enough to keep tolling it at Saturday night.

But the notes got a bit sour after midnight to a number of residents near the suburban Berea campus, and they telephoned complaints to the police.

Before the difference of opinion was resolved by the men in blue, there had been a noisy demonstration by a student crowd estimated to number several hundred at its peak. Six students, including one girl, were arrested. College authorities are investigating today.

ALL voters also will vote on a Municipal Court judge, with Judge Max G. Dice, running for reelection, as the only candidate, and three proposals to amend the state constitution. Wife Uses Arsenic In Mate's Lunches

CLEVELAND (AP)—Arsenic poisoning which killed a blast furnace worker resulted from rat poison his wife mixed into mayonnaise she spread on sandwiches, he ate for a lunch over a period of several weeks, homicide detectives told the prosecutor today.

Capt. David E. Kerr of the homicide squad said Willie Bonner, 33, who died Friday, had been poisoned by his 29-year-old wife.

Kerr said the woman, married to Bonner 11 years and mother of two sons, aged 8 and 6, told him she hadn't been "getting on" with her husband. The wife and an unidentified 24-year-old man were held without charge.

Gromyko Heading Home

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko arrived in Copenhagen by plane today, en route home from the U. N. Assembly in New York.

The Dispatch quoted Huntington as saying the ore is in 27 of Ohio's 88 counties.

"The richest deposit to date is on a property leased to the Dearing Manufacturing Co. of Greenfield," he said.

"The tract is located near Cynthiana. It consists of approximately 3,000 acres of low mountain country with an elevation of some 1,000 feet above sea level.

The paper quoted Clay E. Hicks, a member of the tax consulting firm of Fry-Murray and Associates of Columbus as agent for a patented milling process that makes recovery of the Ohio ore profitable, as saying that the first metals separation plant will be erected near Hillsboro shortly after the first of the year.

The newspaper said the find is worth thousands of billions of dollars.

The Dispatch said the ore's discoverer, Lawrence W. Huntington of nearby Groveport, has spent 2½ years in tracing the ore to its source and working out a method to process it cheaply.

The paper quoted Clay E. Hicks, a member of the tax consulting firm of Fry-Murray and Associates of Columbus as agent for a Huntington, who says he holds no college degrees in engineering or metallurgy, discovered a trace of the uranium in his drinking water and tested it by an ultraviolet light process and chemical analysis, the Dispatch story said.

The Dispatch said the total value of the vein could be as high as 10,000 billion dollars and added that if only one per cent of it were tapped, "the resultant 100 billion dollar pot would still make the richest gold or diamond strike in history look like peanuts."

The uranium vein borders Lake Erie in northeastern Ohio and runs directly south through the heart of Ohio in a strip 5 to 20 miles wide and more than 200 miles long, the newspaper said.

Americans Agree Dog Passenger Can Be Returned Safely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scientists the world over were making a careful study today of the second earth satellite sent aloft by Russia, Sputnik II which is carrying a live dog.

American scientists agree it is possible to bring the dog, named Curly, traveling back to earth alive.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, said it is possible to allow the dog to parachute to earth still alive in a capsule by using radio devices in regular use in this country.

He said the problem would be to trigger the capsule off with enough force in the opposite direction from which the satellite is orbiting so that gravity would take over and pull it earthward.

Dr. Hynek added that some automatic device could trip the parachute and permit it to float to earth and that it could be tracked by radar instruments.

DR. JOHN D. Rinehart, assistant director of the observatory, said "I don't see why they can't bring the dog back down. The technique to do this has been pretty well solved."

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, the observatory's director, said three problems are involved:

1. Slowing the dog down quickly at a high altitude.

2. Carrying her safely through the heating period when her container hits denser atmosphere near the earth.

3. The final parachute descent. Dr. Whipple said also that "it doesn't look like it would require much equipment to keep the dog up in space for several weeks."

Smithsonian scientists said the value of having the dog aboard the satellite is to measure the effect of cosmic rays, tiny particles from outer space, upon animals unprotected by the earth's atmosphere.

It is vital, they said, that before any humans venture into space more is known about the effect of "free falling" over a prolonged period on the circulatory and digestive system.

In Warsaw, a Polish space scientist believes the Russians used a new type of rocket fuel to power their king-sized Sputnik.

Olgierd Wolczko, secretary of the Polish Astronautic Society, said it seemed likely Sputnik II was powered by fusion of borax and hydrogen. He said this previously had been achieved only on a laboratory scale. He estimated it would produce twice the power of other known rocket fuels.

By fusion he meant chemical "burning," not fusion in the nuclear sense.

Wolczko said Soviet scientists had to solve two enormously difficult problems:

1. The resistance of the rocket to tremendous temperature pressure and vibrations accompanying the work of the engine.

2. The fuel problem.

He said it is likely the Russians used not only metals but special ceramic materials which are able to withstand temperatures of 2,500 to 3,000 degrees centigrade.

Gregg St. Man Pleads Guilty to 2 Assault Counts

Sanford Blake, Jr., 28, of 604 Gregg St., was fined a total of $10 and costs, with the fines suspended, after he pleaded guilty to two assault and battery charges in Municipal Court Monday.

A charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct filed by Mrs. Virginia Cash against Benjamin Cash, 32, of 832 John St., was dismissed at her request.

One man was fined for intoxication.

Ex-Bender Aides OK Party-Jumper

WASHINGTON—Three former employees of former Sen. George H. Bender (R-OH) said today they will stick with their new boss, Rep. Vincent J. Delaney of New Jersey, who succeeded them to the Democratic party.

The three former Bender workers—Mrs. Elizabeth Frazer, Mrs. Arline Wasilewski and Mrs. Geraldine Colevas—make up Delaney's Washington staff.

Selected as a Republican in 1956 in Hudson County, N. J., Delaney made the party switch after announcing he would support New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner, a Democrat, for reelection.

Premier in Portugal Wins Election Easily

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—The National Union party of Premier Antonio Salazar again has won the 120 seats in the National Assembly, all but 6 without opposition.

An almost complete count showed that more than 70 per cent of Portugal's registered voters endorsed the government candidate in the election Sunday.

The National Union is the only political party allowed in Portugal, ruled by Salazar for 30 years. The party was opposed in three districts in 1953 but won all Assembly seats.

Benson Visits Israel

JERUSALEM (AP)—U. S. Agriculture Secretary Benson arrived in Israel from Jordan today on his round-the-world trip.

Trucker Fined On DWI Count

Jury Trial Asked On Similar Charge

A Chagrin Falls truck driver was fined and jailed by Judge Max G. Dice in Municipal Court Monday morning after pleading guilty to driving while intoxicated. Another man, charged with the same offense, made a request for jury trial.

Fined $200 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail, and given a one-year license suspension was Charles Johnson, 35, who was arrested at 2:50 a. m. Nov. 2 on S. Fayette St.

Dec. 5 was set tentatively as the date for the trial of Otis Loecey, 27, Lewis Rd., who pleaded not guilty to the DWI charge. Hearing on a charge of resisting arrest filed against Loecey was continued indefinitely.

Loecey, who was represented by an attorney, was arrested at 2:50 a. m. Nov. 3 on Lewis St.

Freeway Route Proposal Made To Engineers

City Manager James F. Parkinson and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee formally presented their proposal for routing the North-south freeway through Fayette County to Elmer Barrett and Associates, consulting engineers, in Chillicothe Saturday.

Representing the Chamber were President Walter Morrow, Manager, William Stoughton, and Ben F. Norris head of the chamber's highway committee.

The highway committee has recommended a route approximately four miles north of Washington C. H. The Barrett firm has recommended an "airline" route across Fayette County which would place the freeway near Jeffersonville.

Barrett assured the group their proposal would be incorporated in a general report which will be made on the project.

Pope Pius Renews Plea For European Unity

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius XII today renewed his plea for European unity, saying such association was "vital economic necessity" for states of average power.

Such countries, the pope told delegates to the six-nation European Coal and Steel Community Assembly, must associate "if they wish to follow the scientific, industrial and cultural activities which condition their prosperity, their true liberty and their cultural expansion."

DR. FRED L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass. said the new satellite "should be visible very soon as an evening object in United States latitudes."

Whipple said it also should begin making morning passes over the United States "in a few days."

Scientists and radio amateurs began picking up the now-familiar beeps shortly after Sputnik II was launched. The new satellite was transmitting on the same frequencies as Sputnik I did — 20 and 0 megacycles.

DR. JOHN P. Hagen, director of the U. S. earth satellite program, found the 1.120-pound weight of Sputnik II less astonishing than some of his colleagues.

"It doesn't surprise me," Hagen said, "that they were able to put that weight in orbit since they must have done the same thing before with their first satellite and the casing and the satellite were detached."

Hagen said "The thing is, we don't know how much of all their weight represents the third stage rocket casing alone and how much of it represents the satellite and its scientific equipment."

lege, said if information reaching him is accurate the Russians have produced rocket power and guidance systems capable of spanning the 239,000 miles to the moon.

Capene said a moon rocket could follow several paths. One would require about four days' travel time but save fuel. Another would require a day but need much more rocket force.

Capene said "the international grapevine on which Russia plants rumors intended to go beyond the Iron Curtain" has reported they will try to hit the moon on Nov. 7.

The Sputnik II announcement brought a renewal of demands that this country speed up its missile and satellite programs to overtake the Russians. But Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and other officials indicated they expect little or no change in this country's present schedule.

McElroy says the second Soviet satellite was "not surprising to anyone in the Defense Department or the government."

He said, "We already are in a pressure program. Our program is in very good shape right now."

The Russian test gave them another first—the first live space traveler, a Spitz-type female dog named Kudryavka, which is Russian for curly.

An accurate orbit for the new satellite still had not been calculated today, but residents of the United States were expected to be sighting Sputnik II before long. It is traveling substantially the same pattern as its predecessor, but is taking a little bit longer for each circuit.

Ohio Sales Dip In September

Retail Volume Down 2 Pct. from 1956

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Total Ohio retail sales in September were 2 per cent below the level for the corresponding month last year.

The "Ohio Retail Analyst," published by Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research, said in its October issue that only 4 of the 19 kinds of Ohio businesses for which figures are available showed gains.

Florists, drug stores and motor vehicle dealers had sales increases of 2 per cent while restaurants gained 1 per cent.

Decreases during the same period included heating and plumbing equipment dealers down 20 per cent, men's clothing and furnishing stores down 13 per cent, family clothing stores down 12 per cent and women's ready-to-wear stores 5 per cent.

All of the eight largest Ohio cities experienced drops in retail sales in the first nine months of the year as compared with 1956. Increases included gasoline stations 8 per cent, combination stores with groceries and meats 4 per cent and drug stores 3 per cent. Decreases included lumber and music stores 8 per cent and women's ready-to-wear stores 5 per cent.

McElroy says the second Soviet satellite was "not surprising to anyone in the Defense Department or the government."

Women Still Play Vital Role In U. S. Armed Forces Posts

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of five articles on the women's branches of the armed forces.

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON (AP) — It took time, but people finally got used to seeing women in uniform during World War II years.

Now some people are wondering why the women don't get back into more feminine attire and take other jobs or get married.

Truth is, women still have a vital place in the nation's defense picture. This is one of the main reasons the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services remains in existence. This committee of leading civilian women, first set up by the secretary of defense in 1951 to help in recruiting for the Wacs, Waves, Wafs, Women Marines and nurse and medical specialist corps, still is beating the drums for the woman in uniform.

Miss Margaret Divver of Boston, advertising manager of one of the country's largest insurance companies and current committee chairman, says each committee woman in her particular field of interest and geographical area is working toward public acceptance of the idea of military service for women as a "facet of good citizenship."

Specifically, said Miss Divver, they are trying to bring home to the public that women in uniform are doing some important military jobs that must be done.

Besides carrying out a unified program of public education in behalf of all women in the services, the committee advises the Department of Defense on policies relating to servicewomen.

It recommends standards for training, housing, health, recreation and general welfare.

Members are appointed by the secretary of defense to serve three years. Each year a new chairman is appointed. The committee as a whole meets twice a year in Washington, where permanent headquarters are maintained in the Pentagon under direction of an executive secretary. This job rotates among the services. Lt. Col. Elizabeth Ray of the Air Force is the present executive secretary. Her job is to assist and advise the chairman and act as liaison between the committee and the Department of Defense.

Bloomingburg Junior Class Play Thursday

BLOOMINGBURG — Bloomingburg High School's Junior class play, "The Antics of Andrew," will be staged Thursday night in the high school auditorium. The three-act farce will be presented only once, and receipts from the play will help provide money for the Senior Trip.

The play is built around Andrew, a typical financially embarrassed college student. Andrew gets his college funds from an Uncle Isaac, who, fortunately for Andrew, lives in far away New Zealand. Finding himself in even a more embarrassing financial situation than before, Andrew writes his Uncle that he has gotten himself a wife. And, as is usual in most such cases, he gets a mother-in-law.

As he had hoped, Andrew's allowance was promptly tripled.

Everything seemed in fine shape until Uncle Isaac decided to pay Andrew an unexpected visit!

The cast of characters includes, Andrew, played by Stephen Foster; Althea, Gloria Cleland, Harold Jack Elliott; Willie, Buddy Snyder; Petunia, Betty Jo Meredith; Jacques, Jim Hidy; Dean Bonnyton, David Heistand; Aunt Pruenella, Dona Chrisman; Uncle Isaac, Larry Kilgore; Rev. Mr. Doolittle, Jim Fradd; the messenger, Leslie Fridley; Julie, Nadine Noble, and Betty, Jane McConaughay.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Bloomingburg Junior class. The auditorium holds only 350 persons, and reports of early ticket sales indicate a standing room only attendance.

The play is under the direction of Malcom Kelley.

Ohio Well Up in Per Capita Income

Not many people realize that Ohioans, on a general average, are said to earn more than most Americans.

Maybe that is one reason the Buckeye state has been advancing to a top position in the nation.

However, according to information recently carried in one of the nation's most careful publications in matters of analyzing financial situations, the per capita income in Ohio this year did not rise as rapidly as it did in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and a number of states in the South, Southwest and Far West.

It is pointed out never - less by various analysts that the general steady increase in Ohio indicates that the average individual is making more money, year by year, than in most states.

It is stated that the estimated rather modest per capita increase this year in our state over 1956, $2198 as compared to $2154, can be explained in part by Ohio's consistent annual gain in population.

The total Ohio income is now being divided among more people than ever before, possibly lowering the average enough to offset individual wage gains.

Arise, Ladies--To Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Whatever happened to the equal rights movement, which was intended to give women the same rights as men?

The thought was raised by the announcement that the British government has recommended that women be granted seats in the House of Lords for the first time in history.

This would seem to be, on the face of it, one of the smallest sops of feminine vanity possible and a largely meaningless political gesture. A member of the House of Lords, that ritual-laden organization of vanished grandeur and departed power, has about as much real influence in the affairs of the British commonwealth as the aide-de-camp of a Zulu tribal chief.

As a Londoner might put it, "a seat in the House of Lords plus six pence will also get you a seat on the bus."

However, it is quite likely many ladies will regard the installation of a powder puff room in the House of Lords as a big

However, in most states experiencing a sizeable boost in average income the population is going up even more rapidly than in Ohio. Florida is one example; another is California.

The explanation apparently lies in the fact that, though farm prices have somewhat stabilized, factory construction and output have declined to some extent. Slowdowns have occurred in machinery, household appliances, some metal products, steel and rubber products. These industries from the nucleus of Ohio's productive wealth, and any noticeable drop in their activity naturally is reflected in Ohio payrolls.

Nonetheless, the matter of annual income is comparative. Income levels rose just slightly in Delaware this year, for instance, but Delaware residents earn more on the average than those living in any other state. Much the same is true in Ohio. Salary levels went up only about two per cent in Ohio this year, but they are among the 11 highest in the nation. In fact, a small percentage increase here often means much more than a large one elsewhere.

feminist victory, which just goes to show how the equal rights campaign has lost its virility—at least in the English-speaking world.

The outlook for more major gains by the feminists in the United States today appears dismal.

At the present moment the movement is bogged down. The ladies have been bought off by partial success, become smug with small victories, lost their flaming revolutionary zeal.

Where are the turbulent feminists of yore? Where are the ladies who grimly paraded the streets in demand for equal rights, grimly stepping out of line only to slap the faces of jeering male bystanders? Where are the embattled amazons of moral justice who dared men to sit down and munches the half-loaf it settled for.

American women will never really win the full equality they once sought until they get the rust out of their minds and muscles and go back, united, into the battle.

Zhukov who started life as a Tukhachevsky man. After the murder of Tukhachevsky, Zhukov became a protege of Timoshenko who was the military genius of the Russians in World War II.

Stalin feared Zhukov not only because he had been a protege of Tukhachevsky but because he represented the army as distinct from the party. Zhukov was an element of deviation, of possible counter-revolution; in the final analysis, they feared Trotsky.

The leading military man was Gen. Tukhachevsky. When Stalin got rid of Trotsky, Frunze took his place and died within a year. Frunze like Trotsky opposed Stalin and tried to keep the GPU, the secret police, out of the army and failed.

It is impossible to say that Frunze was actually murdered; he suffered from a stomach ulcer and a weak heart and was forced to undergo an operation which he could not take. Gen. Voroshilov, who is now what might be called president of Soviet Russia, took his place. Voroshilov was completely under the dominion of Stalin.

Gen. Tukhachevsky, despite Stalin's antagonism to him, fought for the modernization of the Soviet army and in 1937 was able to put through reforms based upon the best achievements of the German army. To study German methods, Tukhachevsky went to Germany, accompanied by Zhukov. Stalin used this visit killed as a traitor; but it did not in any way hurt Zhukov.

It was in 1937 that Stalin put on his grand purge which eventually resulted in the purging of 35,000 officers; three out of five marshals, six out of eight generals on the military tribunal, 57 out of 85 corps commanders, 110 out of 185 divisional commanders. Zhukov survived this purge.

In Stalin's great purge the following senior officers were liquidated:

Marshall Tukhachevsky, and the Generals Yakir (commander of the Ukrainian military district), Borevich (commander of the White Russian military district), Kork Head of the War Academy and Moscow garrison commander), Primakov (deputy commander, Khrushchev), Feldman (Red Army personnel directorate), El-

Zhukov who started life as a Tukhachevsky man. After the murder of Tukhachevsky, Zhukov became a protege of Timoshenko who was the military genius of the Russians in World War II.

Stalin feared Zhukov not only because he had been a protege of Tukhachevsky but because he represented the army as distinct from the party. Zhukov was an element of deviation, of possible counter-revolution.

Nevertheless Khrushchev, needing support in his purge of Malenkov, Molotov, Kaganovich and Shepilov, purge which must have been wider and broader than we know, turned to Zhukov for temporary aid. Khrushchev does not fear Zhukov; he does fear the West which prefers Zhukov to himself. So Zhukov will have to go as his colleagues went in 1937.

It is just 20 years since Stalin started on the grand purge.

Mayor Candidate To Face Mayor

CLEVELAND (AP) — The mayoralty campaign in North Royalton has been enlivened by the arrest of one of the candidates.

Ambrose Altenburger, 69, campaigning against the incumbent, Lester Edgerton, was arrested for driving on the wrong side of the street while distributing literature.

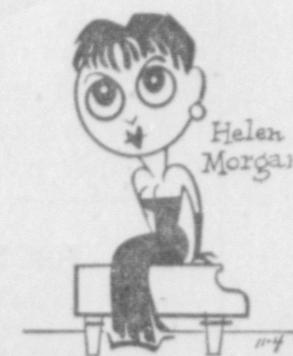

The candidate declared police gave him abusive treatment, but this was denied by the arresting officer who also filed a charge of resisting arrest.

There will be a hearing in the mayor's court after election.

HELEN MORGAN often is spoken about by persons recalling the wild days of the prohibition era, and indeed they are showing a whole movie devoted to her tragic story. When she died, there were few to mourn her, and not so much as a bouquet of flowers sent to the room where her body rested. Always big-hearted, Joe E. Lewis heard about this, and ordered hundreds of dollars worth of flowers from a nearby florist. They were delivered with cards from all the great showmen of the time. Then Joe hired a big bus, and loaded it with waiters and others who had worked at night clubs where Miss Morgan had sung. So Helen Morgan was buried in style.

We are winning the battle against dental decay. In the next ten years, I am sure, we will have considerably less tooth decay than we have today.

In fact, the American Dental Association made this prediction: "The problem of dental decay, including the resulting need for dentures, will become relatively minor as the result of fluoridation and other scientific advances."

This certainly is good news, especially for our children, the ones who benefit the most from fluoridation of our water supplies.

However, this doesn't mean the end of our dental worries, not by

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The launching of Sputnik II and the downgrading of Marshal Zhukov are shocking symbols of the contradictions under 40 years of communism in Russia.

Both events — packed with peril, and some small hope, for this country — were announced over the weekend, a few days before Russia celebrates on Nov. 7 the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The Sputniks testify brilliantly to Russia's industrial and scientific progress at the very moment when Zhukov's humiliation shows the instability and political primateness of the Communist leadership.

Already Russian progress with missiles and Sputniks may have done this country desperate damage by weakening American prestige; intimidating friends and neutrals; and even intimidating this country to the extent of making compromises it would have considered unthinkable a few months ago.

Zhukov's elimination provides an unhappy prospect. It comes a few months after the purge of most of the remaining top leaders of Stalin's day. It seems to restore one-man rule again, this time Nikita Khrushchev's.

The picture is not all necessarily bad. But there is no reason for expecting any time soon any real change that would benefit this country.

The Kremlin in-fighting — while the Russian people made startling advances — reveals the Communist leadership still operates on the dog-eat-dog principle of 40 years ago.

Absolute control for Khrushchev now does not mean an end to tensions and rivalries. They may be only temporarily suspended and may erupt in bloody party explosions.

At the moment the party apparently has little to fear from the Russian people themselves, who are bound to have a national pride in the achievements under the party's direction. In throwing out Zhukov, the party asserted control over the army.

But quiet and far-reaching changes may be forced on the party. When it seized power 40 years ago at the point of a gun

The violets were just as beautiful as if they were blooming at the usual time in May and June and most of the blossoms were fully developed.

Many livestock raisers get their stock to market without unnecessary delay, and thus prevent the loss of money by "drift" or shrinkage in weight.

This has been a practice for a long, long time, and makes me think of the tremendous "drift" or shrinkage in weight that cattle, sheep, hogs and turkeys must have undergone when they were driven for great distances to market when Fayette County was still in swaddling clothing.

In those days cattle and sheep were driven overland to Baltimore and New York for marketing, and later, when the canals cut through Ohio, livestock was driven to Chillicothe and Circleville to the livestock markets established on the canal.

Then, when railroads came through the state, with one of the first (Cincinnati and Zanesville — now the Pennsylvania RR), coming through this city, Washington C. H. became a shipping center for livestock and farm produce generally, for a wide area.

Then, until farm trucks made their appearance not too long ago, most of the hogs, sheep and cattle were driven into cities for marketing and they came into Washington C. H. from all directions and by the thousands.

Those were the days when it was necessary to have substantial fences about lawns to prevent livestock from running across lawns and all but ruining them, to the great indignation of the property owners.

Next Auction Sale of Farm Machinery and Miscellaneous equipment at London, Ohio, on

at 11 O'clock is the 10th Anniversary of our sale. We "Thank You".

Harold Flax Auction has constantly grown. More pieces of farm machinery and miscellaneous equipment go through the sale each year. Flax Auction Sale has maintained one of the top markets in the country for most any kind of farm machinery. Buyers come to the sale field from all over Ohio as well as 10 other States.

All sales have been under the watchful eye of G. Harold Flax, manager, who acts as agent only, with the idea that every one, consignors and purchasers alike must be treated fair and square. In 10 years Mr. Flax has guided and watched the sale of enough farm machinery, if each piece touched the other, to extend over 200 miles. If any man knows the dollar value of farm machinery in the auction ring, Harold Flax should know.

Harold Flax, as Auctioneer and Sales Manager, has conducted farm sales and farm machinery sales all over Ohio. Because he knows what farm machinery and farm chattels should sell for, he is able to get a top selling job done. Many, for whom Harold Flax has conducted sales, have said that his integrity and know how have netted them 10% to 20% more money from their sales.

Auction Sales are not picnics or family reunions. They are a fast positive way of selling commodities, be what they may, for the highest possible dollars. In many instances the proceeds, from an auction sale, represent the entire life time earnings and savings of the owner. Harold Flax assumes the serious responsibility of selling for top dollar value because he has practical selling knowledge gained from years of experience in selling. An Auction Sale is his challenge to use his ability, integrity, and know how to get the most money possible out of what ever he is selling. It is not just another job. Due to his wide acquaintance in sales work he is no stranger in any sale ring. He is as close as your telephone.

Sullivan Gives

Success Is Outlined

NEW YORK (AP)—How does the grand old man of TV variety shows feel about the avalanche of same hosted by singers this season?

Ed Sullivan isn't worried.

"A good number of them will fall by the wayside," said the great stoneface, indicating that Sullivan will keep rolling along.

Why?

That's the question that has been asked in and out of show business since Sullivan started his Sunday night clambake 10 years ago. He himself offered some reasons:

"I think my show has succeeded because it's a newspaperman's show. I don't sing. I don't dance. I don't tell jokes. But I think as a columnist I've sat through enough attractions to know what it takes to put together a good show. And I can do it without any feelings of a performer myself."

"I can routine the acts without having the performers feel I'm saving the time for myself. I've cut big-name acts from their usual 26 minutes to 4.

"But if I were a singer or a comic myself, I'd have trouble doing that. Performers are jealous. But nobody's jealous of me as a performer."

Another hazard, he pointed out, is the practice of singers exchanging guest shots on each other's

A REPLY TO
Misrepresentation!

Three candidates for the County Board of Education Avey, Hoppes and Lightle, injected my name in ads appearing October 25 and October 29, apparently feeling that by so doing they would gain votes for themselves.

In justice to the voters, their misrepresentations should be clarified.

ALL that has ever been requested of Superintendent Hiltz and the County Board of Education has been an honest, competent and unbiased survey of the educational needs of our children. This was the sole purpose of the filing of the Citizens Committee petition in 1955.

On February 6, 1957, the Court recognized the urgent need for an impartial study of the County's school problems and said, "I feel that it certainly should be recommended strongly to whoever is on this citizen's committee that they do employ some outside source, someone that does not have this feeling of animosity that has emanated for perhaps a year over this Citizen's Committee, so that they can make the correct and necessary recommendations as to the formation of the school district of Fayette County."

Superintendent Hiltz, the County and Miami Trace School Boards have already spent thousands of dollars of tax money to prevent a survey, - enough to pay for a survey.

Do they fear that a survey will give you a chance to approve a better educational program than the one they propose?

Do they fear that a study might expose an extravagance, incompetent planning and organization which still means a bad school situation?

CONTRARY TO WHAT THEY SAY, A CITIZENS COMMITTEE SURVEY CANNOT DESTROY MIAMI TRACE OR DISREGARD THE WILL OF THE VOTERS.

Any Citizens Committee sponsored study, any study by the State Board of Education can only lead to recommendations which are placed on the ballot and are subject to the approval of Miami Trace voters.

Why does this group which sponsors misleading information, also participate in casting reflection on the integrity of member of the State Department of Education, Ohio State, Miami and Akron Universities, Probate Court Judges and many others?

In a conversation with Supt. Hiltz, I asked why he took such an interest in defeating different competent, qualified young men who had run for school board positions at various times. His answer preceded by a Ha! Ha! Ha!, was that he was interested in keeping his job, and therefore, supported those men who would continue him in his present position.

The long time activities of the County Superintendent have resulted in a degree of animosity and prejudice which cannot be tolerated in our county.

For what purposes and to serve whose purposes, have personal abuse, boycott threats, attempt to get people's jobs, and community hate been generated and used in relation to the school affairs of Fayette County? I have proof of these assertions.

I believe that the defeat of AVEY, HOPPES and LIGHTLE for the County Board, and THE DEFEAT OF PERRILL and OWENS FOR THE MIAMI TRACE BOARD, who by their own statements support the position of the present rural school leadership, will bring

California Girl, 7, Dies in Mountains

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Lost with her puppy high on 7,510-foot Reyes Peak in the Los Padres National Forest, Jill Hatch, 7, Santa Barbara, Calif., fell asleep and perished in freezing weather.

Her body was found in the snow Sunday only a mile from Camp Sheideck, a private resort in the mountains where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hatch, had gone to fish.

Coroner Virgil Payton said the girl apparently died of exposure.

"The audience is bound to get tired of seeing performers all the time," he added. "That's what happened to Milton Berle."

"I think my show has succeeded because it's a newspaperman's show. I don't sing, I don't dance. I don't tell jokes. But I think as a columnist I've sat through enough attractions to know what it takes to put together a good show. And I can do it without any feelings of a performer myself."

"I can routine the acts without having the performers feel I'm saving the time for myself. I've cut big-name acts from their usual 26 minutes to 4."

"But if I were a singer or a comic myself, I'd have trouble doing that. Performers are jealous. But nobody's jealous of me as a performer."

A REPLY TO
Misrepresentation!

Three candidates for the County Board of Education Avey, Hoppes and Lightle, injected my name in ads appearing October 25 and October 29, apparently feeling that by so doing they would gain votes for themselves.

In justice to the voters, their misrepresentations should be clarified.

ALL that has ever been requested of Superintendent Hilti and the County Board of Education has been an honest, competent and unbiased survey of the educational needs of our children. This was the sole purpose of the Citizens Committee petition in 1955.

On February 6, 1957, the Court recognized the urgent need for an impartial study of the County's school problems and said, "I feel that it certainly should be recommended strongly to whoever is on this citizen's committee that they do employ some outside source, someone that does not have this feeling of animosity that has emanated for perhaps a year over this Citizen's Committee, so that they can make the correct and necessary recommendations as to the formation of the school district of Fayette County."

Superintendent Hilti, the County and Miami Trace School Boards have already spent thousands of dollars of tax money to prevent a survey, - enough to pay for a survey.

Do they fear that a survey will give you a chance to approve a better educational program than the one they propose?

Do they fear that a study might expose an extravagance, incompetent planning and organization which still means a bad school situation?

CONTRARY TO WHAT THEY SAY, A CITIZENS COMMITTEE SURVEY CANNOT DESTROY MIAMI TRACE OR DISREGARD THE WILL OF THE VOTERS.

Any Citizens Committee sponsored study, any study by the State Board of Education can only lead to recommendations which are placed on the ballot and are subject to the approval of Miami Trace voters.

Why does this group which sponsors misleading information, also participate in casting reflection on the integrity of member of the State Department of Education, Ohio State, Miami and Akron Universities, Probate Court Judges and many others?

In a conversation with Supt. Hilti, I asked why he took such an interest in defeating different competent, qualified young men who had run for school board positions at various times. His answer preceded by a Ha! Ha! Ha!, was that he was interested in keeping his job, and therefore, supported those men who would continue him in his present position.

The long time activities of the County Superintendent have resulted in a degree of animosity and prejudice which cannot be tolerated in our county.

For what purposes and to serve whose purposes, have personal abuse, boycott threats, attempt to get people's jobs, and community hate been generated and used in relation to the school affairs of Fayette County? I have proof of these assertions.

I believe that the defeat of AVEY, HOPPES AND LIGHTLE for the County Board, and THE DEFEAT OF PERRILL AND OWENS FOR THE MIAMI TRACE BOARD, who by their own statements support the position of the present rural school leadership, will bring

10TH ANNIVERSARY
AUCTION

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6,

at 11 O'clock is the 10th Anniversary of our sale. We "Thank You".

Harold Flax Auction has constantly grown. More pieces of farm machinery and miscellaneous equipment go through the sale each year. Flax Auction Sale has maintained one of the top markets in the country for most any kind of farm machinery. Buyers come to the sale field from all over Ohio as well as 10 other States.

All sales have been under the watchful eye of G. Harold Flax, manager, who acts as agent only, with the idea that every one, consignors and purchasers alike must be treated fair and square. In 10 years Mr. Flax has guided and watched the sale of enough farm machinery, if each piece touched the other, to extend over 200 miles. If any man knows the dollar value of farm machinery in the auction ring, Harold Flax should know.

Harold Flax, as Auctioneer and Sales Manager, has conducted farm sales and farm machinery sales all over Ohio. Because he knows what farm machinery and farm chattels should sell for, he is able to get a top selling job done. Many, for whom Harold Flax has conducted sales, have said that his integrity and know how have netted them 10% to 20% more money from their sales.

Auction Sales are not picnics or family reunions. They are a fast positive way of selling commodities, be what they may, for the highest possible dollars. In many instances the proceeds, from an auction sale, represent the entire life time earnings and savings of the owner. Harold Flax assumes the serious responsibility of selling for top dollar value because he has practical selling knowledge gained from years of experience in selling. An Auction Sale is his challenge to use his ability, integrity, and know how to get the most money possible out of what ever he is selling. It is not just another job. Due to his wide acquaintance in sales work he is no stranger in any sale ring. He is as close as your telephone.

rived, and always worried about my health.

I tell him burglars go only to rich people, but he reads the papers and knows it isn't always true. I try to be very selective about TV shows, but when I am out he looks at all sorts of murder and robbery stories. During the day he is alone at home at times. I don't know if it is right to protect him so much.

B. R.

DEAR B. R.: Donny's anxiety symptoms indicate that he feels cut off from his parents; specifically, from his mother. He feels outside the center of family life, love, etc. He feels excluded from the axis of his parents' preferred interests—his mother's particularly.

Thus he feels threatened by all sorts of spooky and menacing possibilities—as if "one alone" in a frightening world of his imagination. He fancies himself forgotten, pushed aside or barely tolerated by the VIPs of his world, namely, mama and papa. His solar plexus, the "seat of emotions"—is tense with dread that he hasn't any close devoted protective championship, available in emergency and stronger than any enemy.

You are a pretty immature mother, I think—to judge by your attempts to sell Donny on the idea that the elderly baby sitter offers him more protection than his parents do. That kind of talk is plain abdication of your obligation to be fully a parent. It hints at an unconscious shirker bias—even though you may assume you were just trying to soothe him.

For advice: Donny needs real maternal help, in regaining emotional health. And in order to give him the help he needs, you'll have to have some first-hand re-education for the mothering job. So, go into the story thoroughly with a family relations expert in your local Herald.

Third Quarter Reports Show Income Ahead of Totals for Last Year

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The squeeze on profits is on in earnest today. But at the three-quarter mark of the year all but one of the 12 top money makers of big business report profits running well ahead of the nine month figures for 1956.

The reports—some setting records—come at a time when doubts of the economy's future beset Wall Street and when big business is getting increased attention from congressional critics.

Half of the top dozen of the big earners had a poorer July-September quarter this year than last. But the carry over of earnings from the first half of the year made their combined total for the first nine months 25.9 per cent above the 1956 period.

The record of industry as a whole is poor by comparison with the biggest firms. Earnings statements now pouring in show most corporate profits down from the second quarter of this year, and a sizable percentage of the companies show declines from a year ago.

A congressional committee is questioning steel officials about the price rise of last summer. Steel firms reporting so far show earnings averaging 22 per cent above last year, more because of the steel strike the summer of 1956, perhaps, than because of the price boost.

As a whole, oil industry profits are running 15 per cent ahead of last year, but many of the smaller companies report declines.

General Motors was the only one of the top 12 money makers among nonfinancial corporations to show lower nine month figures than a year ago. And this decline in net income after taxes drops it from first to third place among the "golden dozen."

Jersey Standard Oil, despite a dip in the third quarter, has spurted to the top of the nine-month list with profits of 660 million dollars, up from 603 million in the previous year.

The Bell Telephone System in the nine months ending Aug. 31 climbed to second place with $24 million dollars. U.S. Steel stayed in fourth place with record earnings of $29 million.

Gulf Oil is now fifth in the 1957 profit sweepstakes. At the half way mark Du Pont is now ninth. The Texas Co. has spurted to sixth place, trading places with Ford Motor.

But Ford reports marked gains over a year ago, 230 million dollars now, 145 million then.

California Standard Oil is eighth, Socony Mobile Oil tenth and General Electric eleventh. Last is Bethlehem Steel.

WEST UNION (AP) — A 22-year-old Blue Creek man is in Adams County jail today on charges he stole $4,700 from his grandparents.

Sheriff Eugene Fulton said Sunday that Harold Barnes has admitted taking only $3,000 which he said he planned to use in starting a used car lot. Fulton said the money was in a trunk at the apartment of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bailey of West Union.

Women Prove They Know Thrift Shown by Pioneers

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

American women, reputed to be extravagant, lazy and pampered, haven't forgotten the thrifty virtues of their pioneer ancestors.

An astonishing number of them, in fact, know how to bake an eggless, milkless, butterless cake, and can prove it at the drop of a hat.

This became apparent recently after actor Ralph Bellamy happened to mention in the course of the TV show "To Tell the Truth" the fact that his mother used to bake such a cake during World War I. This was greeted by unbelieving snorts of derision from other members of the panel. Then came the deluge.

In the first few days after his mention of the nostalgic recipe, Bellamy received more than 500 letters from women all over the country enclosing their own recipes for the thrifty cake. A number sent actual cakes to prove their point.

"They didn't have to prove it to me," says Bellamy, "I still remember how good the cake used to taste when my mother baked it. It's a dark, spicy cake something like a fruit cake. Boy I'd like to have a piece right now."

Practically all Bellamy's correspondents agreed on the recipe, which is as follows:

2 cups brown sugar; 2 cups hot water; 4 tablespoons lard; 1 pound seedless raisins, cut up; 2 teaspoons salt; 2 teaspoons cinnamon; 2 teaspoons cloves; 3 cups sifted flour; 2 teaspoons baking soda

Simmer together for 5 minutes sugar, water, raisins and shortening.

Study Shows Retirement Leads to Improved Health

CLEVELAND (P)—It's time to lay aside the notion that retirement generally leads to poor health.

That's the conclusion in a study made by Cornell University and reported today by Dr. Wayne E. Thompson to the 10th annual Gerontological Meeting. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

According to Thompson, "if any general effect at all can be discerned, it is that retirement leads to an improvement in health."

He said that the study did find that many people in retirement are in poor health. But, he said, "it would seem that this can best be understood in terms of poor health leading to retirement and not the reverse."

The study was based on information from people who have retired as well as from doctors who examined them.

The idea that retirement usually leads to a decline in health, Thompson said, results from inaccurate assumptions made by people in general and some specialists in the field of aging.

"Popularly it is assumed that retirement leads to a decline in physical well-being, for everyone knows at least one person whose health deteriorated or who died suspiciously soon after retirement."

In another speech, Lawrence D. Corey of the University of Chicago said that whether a person makes an easy switch from working to retirement is connected with the type of job he held.

"The higher the group's occupation status," he said, "the greater its adjustment is to aging and retirement."

In reporting these conclusions from a study of retired people, Corey said that although the manual laborer is not as well prepared for old age as his working superiors he looks at retirement in essentially the same way.

He said the solution to this problem is for employers to make a more diligent effort to prepare his manual laborers for retirement.

The study also showed, Corey said, that a person's adjustment is not related to his marital status or sex but is connected with how long he went to school. The better the education, he said, the better the adjustment.

TV To Offer Old Age Story

Script Stresses Woes Of Retired Minister

NEW YORK (P)—The problems involved in growing old seldom are dramatized on television. Tonight, however, there is an outstanding exception when "Studio One" (CBS-TV) presents "The Bend in the Road."

If the production directed by Fielder Cook is as good as the script by John Vlahos it is worth viewing this drama starring Franchot Tone and Cathleen Nesbitt.

Vlahos said recently the story is mostly "about a retired Protestant minister's search for his usefulness. He's an old man in a nation of youth and youth's success. What can he contribute? He goes through a spiritual evaluation of himself, to the world, to himself and to his family."

How does it happen that Vlahos, baptized in the Greek Orthodox faith, should be so interested and informed about the life of a Protestant clergyman?

Perhaps it goes back to the days when Vlahos, now 39 and with a host of TV drama credits, was a boy in his native Springfield, Ohio. The son of devout Greek Orthodox parents, he joined a Boy Scout troop in a local Presbyterian church. He liked the boys, the church and the minister.

One Sunday he joined the church with a group of other young people.

"My mother became hysterical," Vlahos recalls. "The neighbors were shocked, it appeared I was in bad trouble. They sent for an Orthodox priest in the nearby town and the Presbyterian minister was called in."

Vlahos is vague about the outcome of the sectarian dilemma—but he does say that he regrets there is not a Presbyterian church in Westport, Conn., where he now lives with his wife and two children. Although not presently an active member of any church, he believes that true religious spirit transcends sectarian lines.

Any Tapes for Trade?
Collector Is Interested

SANBERNARDINO, Calif. (P)—Donald Rafferty, a 37-year-old typist's clerk of San Bernardino, has an unusual hobby. He is a member of Tape-Respondents, International. "When I ask anyone if they know what tape club is, they inevitably answer negatively," he said. "A tape club is one in which members who own tape recorders exchange tapes with one another."

"At present," said Rafferty, "I am exchanging tapes with club members in the United States, British Columbia, England and Australia."

Jehovah's Witness Prefers Army to Jail in Draft Case

CLEVELAND (P)—A member of the Jehovah's Witness sect decided in court today to join the Army instead of going to jail.

Abraham Hofstetter, 25, who lives near Dalton in Wayne County, later told a reporter that deciding factor was that in the Army he would have a small income to help support his 60-year-old mother, Mrs. Ida Hofstetter.

He was one of seven members of the sect who were brought before Federal Judge Paul C. Weick today on charges of evading the draft. The others pleaded guilty and drew sentences of two years each.

The judge told Hofstetter that like the first two defendants, he would be given five minutes to consider his position. The judge said he did not like to impose a jail sentence without reminding the defendant of what it would mean to him in the future.

After five minutes of complete silence Judge Weick said, "have you made up your mind? You may have more time if necessary."

Hofstetter said he was ready and the judge asked for his answer.

"Yes," said the defendant.

"Yes—What?" asked the judge. "I'll go in the Army," replied Hofstetter.

Those sentenced to jail today included Robert J. Bohland, 23, Novak.

The judge continued his bond and ordered the defendant to report for induction.

Lt. Col. Raymond Clouse, executive officer of the state Selective Service unit in Columbus, said it was the first case he knew of in which a member of the sect had chosen induction.

Starting January 28, I begin touring for a year in the national company of 'Bells are Ringing,'" she continued. "Now you might ask why I do the show when it isn't new.

"The reason is that I haven't found a script that is so ideally suited to my talents. 'Bells,' which Judy Holliday did originally—and very well—is something that fits me."

Also, she has done some TV appearances here and has several more lined up.

Study Shows Retirement Leads to Improved Health

CLEVELAND (P)—It's time to lay aside the notion that retirement generally leads to poor health.

That's the conclusion in a study made by Cornell University and reported today by Dr. Wayne E. Thompson to the 10th annual Gerontological Meeting. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

According to Thompson, "if any general effect at all can be discerned, it is that retirement leads to an improvement in health."

He said that the study did find that many people in retirement are in poor health. But, he said, "it would seem that this can best be understood in terms of poor health leading to retirement and not the reverse."

The study was based on information from people who have retired as well as from doctors who examined them.

The idea that retirement usually leads to a decline in health, Thompson said, results from inaccurate assumptions made by people in general and some specialists in the field of aging.

"Popularly it is assumed that retirement leads to a decline in physical well-being, for everyone knows at least one person whose health deteriorated or who died suspiciously soon after retirement."

In another speech, Lawrence D. Corey of the University of Chicago said that whether a person makes an easy switch from working to retirement is connected with the type of job he held.

The higher the group's occupation status," he said, "the greater its adjustment is to aging and retirement."

In reporting these conclusions from a study of retired people, Corey said that although the manual laborer is not as well prepared for old age as his working superiors he looks at retirement in essentially the same way.

He said the solution to this problem is for employers to make a more diligent effort to prepare his manual laborers for retirement.

The study also showed, Corey said, that a person's adjustment is not related to his marital status or sex but is connected with how long he went to school. The better the education, he said, the better the adjustment.

TV To Offer Old Age Story

Script Stresses Woes Of Retired Minister

NEW YORK (P)—The problems involved in growing old seldom are dramatized on television. Tonight, however, there is an outstanding exception when "Studio One" (CBS-TV) presents "The Bend in the Road."

If the production directed by Fielder Cook is as good as the script by John Vlahos it is worth viewing this drama starring Franchot Tone and Cathleen Nesbitt.

Vlahos said recently the story is mostly "about a retired Protestant minister's search for his usefulness. He's an old man in a nation of youth and youth's success. What can he contribute? He goes through a spiritual evaluation of himself, to the world, to himself and to his family."

How does it happen that Vlahos, baptized in the Greek Orthodox faith, should be so interested and informed about the life of a Protestant clergyman?

Perhaps it goes back to the days when Vlahos, now 39 and with a host of TV drama credits, was a boy in his native Springfield, Ohio. The son of devout Greek Orthodox parents, he joined a Boy Scout troop in a local Presbyterian church. He liked the boys, the church and the minister.

One Sunday he joined the church with a group of other young people.

"My mother became hysterical," Vlahos recalls. "The neighbors were shocked, it appeared I was in bad trouble. They sent for an Orthodox priest in a nearby town and the Presbyterian minister was called in."

Vlahos is vague about the outcome of the sectarian dilemma but he does say that he regrets there is not a Presbyterian church in Westport, Conn., where he now lives with his wife and two children. Although not presently an active member of any church, he believes that true religious spirit transcends sectarian lines.

"When I ask anyone if they know what tape club is, they inevitably answer negatively," he said. "A tape club is one in which members who own tape recorders exchange tapes with one another."

"At present," said Rafferty, "I am exchanging tapes with club members in the United States, British Columbia, England and Australia."

Jehovah's Witness Prefers Army to Jail in Draft Case

CLEVELAND (P)—A member of the Jehovah's Witness sect decided in court today to join the Army instead of going to jail.

Abraham Hofstetter, 25, who lives near Dalton in Wayne County, later told a reporter that deciding factor was that in the Army he would have a small income to help support his 60-year-old mother, Mrs. Ida Hofstetter.

He was one of seven members of the sect who were brought before Federal Judge Paul C. Weick today on charges of evading the draft. The others pleaded guilty and drew sentences of two years each.

The judge told Hofstetter that like the first two defendants, he would be given five minutes to consider his position. The judge said he did not like to impose a jail sentence without reminding the defendant of what it would mean to him in the future.

After five minutes of complete silence Judge Weick said, "have you made up your mind? You may have more time if necessary."

Hofstetter said he was ready and the judge asked for his answer.

"Yes," said the defendant.
"Yes—What?" asked the judge.
"I'll go in the Army," replied Hofstetter.

Ginger Rogers Back in Action

No Longer Married, She's Seeking Work

NEW YORK (P)—"I'm not married any longer, so why shouldn't I work as hard as I can? Idleness breeds mischief or depression, so I'm going to keep busy."

This was Ginger Rogers' explanation of why she is making two important moves in her career:

1. Playing her first night club since she was a kid in Galveston.

2. Returning to a stage musical for the first time since 1930.

Looking slim, trim and ageless in her hotel suite, Ginger talked about her future. Obviously her marriage to Jacques Bergerac is over, finished, dead. But she isn't moping.

"Las Vegas has been after me to play there for five years," she said. But I chose to go back to night clubs in a brand-new hotel in Havana because it was new. I'd be the first star to appear there. I'm looking for new challenges."

"Starting January 28, I begin touring for a year in the national company of 'Bells Are Ringing,'" she continued. "Now you might ask why I do the show when it isn't new."

"The reason is that I haven't found a script that is so ideally suited to my talents. 'Bells,' which Judy Holliday did originally—and very well—is something that fits me."

Also, she has done some TV appearances here and has several more lined up.

Big Struggles Continuing in Grid Leagues

Conference Crowns, Gold, Glory Still Remain Unsettled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the football season entering the home stretch, the major conferences still are involved in life-and-death struggles for the championships and the gold and glory that go with some of them.

Perhaps the best example of the way the current season is progressing is the Big Eight. Before the campaign got under way, was there a man alive—with the possible exception of Coach Bud Wilkinson—who would suggest that Oklahoma might not win the title?

Probably not, but here is a team that has won 46 straight games, yet appears to be simply begging to get beaten. Two weeks ago the powerful Sooners eked out a one-point decision over Colorado. Last Saturday, they managed to scrape by Kansas State, a team that had won just two of its previous six games, 13-0.

This week, Oklahoma goes against Missouri, which warmed up to its task by polishing off Colorado, 9-6, last Saturday. The Tigers know they have the ammunition, they know Oklahoma is vulnerable and they know they'll wind up in the Orange Bowl if they win the game. It should be interesting.

Then there is the case of Texas A&M, the No. 1 team in the country in last week's Associated Press poll. The Aggies are the defending Southwest Conference champions, have gone through seven games unscathed and certainly rank as heavy favorites to get the hot spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Yet their total winning margin in their last four games has been three touchdowns. It was by a slim extra point that the Aggies licked Arkansas, 7-6, last Saturday. Presumably, Arkansas was the roughest outfit on their schedule. But in that league, you never can tell. This week, it's Southern Methodist, then Rice and Texas.

The only one of the big conferences that appears to be all settled is the Pacific Coast, and that's because there are more teams ineligible.

Having beaten all three other eligibles, Oregon already is making reservations for the trip to Pasadena for the first time since 1920.

BIG 10—Ohio State, which got off to a bad start, has developed into the heavy choice to win the title and get the Rose Bowl bid.

ATLANTIC COAST Conference—North Carolina State appears to be the class of the league since Georgia Tech punctured Duke's bubble. But NC State is in bad with the NCAA and can't play in the Orange Bowl. So Duke still is the favorite.

SOUTHEASTERN Conference—Since Auburn, the leader, also is on the NCAA's black list and can't play in the Sugar Bowl, Mississippi, Mississippi State and Tennessee are scrambling for the runner-up spot and the Sugar Bowl bid. Right now, Ole Miss, with a 3-0 record, is in the best spot.

IVY LEAGUE—Princeton heads the league, but still has to play two toughies, Yale and Dartmouth. The title probably will be decided on Nov. 23 when Princeton and Dartmouth clash.

SOUTHERN—Defending champion West Virginia has finished its conference schedule and shows a 3-0 mark. But W. Va. has 4-0 and still has two loop games to go.

SKYLINE CONFERENCE—Utah, which sends its aerial circus against Army this week, is way out front with a 4-1 league record.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN Conference—Idaho State practically in.

MISSOURI VALLEY Conference—Houston needs to win only one of its two remaining games to clinch its second straight title.

Only 5 Major Teams Remain Undefeated

NEW YORK—Only five of the nation's major schools remained on football's unbeaten, untied list today.

There are still 30 altogether in the nation but the list of the majors was cut nearly half by defeats of Notre Dame and Texas Western and ties by Dartmouth and Iowa. Surviving are Texas A&M, Oklahoma, Auburn, Arizona State of Tempe and Drake.

Cleveland Browns Again Perch Atop Pro Grid Listing

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Well, there are the Cleveland Browns perched proudly atop the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

And among the more surprised persons is "Precision Paul" Brown, coach of the club.

Following Sunday's come-from-behind 21-17 win over Washington's Redskins for a 5-1 record at the season's halfway mark, Brown declared:

"Frankly, I'm surprised we've done as well as we have. I never thought we'd be on top at this point in the season."

Last year the Browns had a 5-7 record—Brown's only losing season in 11 years of pro ball.

In reply to a remark that "it looks like you're gonna win it all," Brown shuddered and said:

"You may be right, and I hope you are. But we've got to play one game at a time. There are too many good clubs around to start thinking about championships at the beginning of November. Don't forget, Pittsburgh can be for the lead if the Steelers can beat us next Sunday."

But, rated off Sunday's conquest over the Redskins—just a week after Washington had eunched the New York Giants out of a tie for the top spot—the Browns might be hard to catch.

In previous games the defense has starred for Cleveland, but this time the offense—with quarterback Tommy O'Connell and fullback Jim Brown in the scintillating roles—stole the show.

O'Connell went all the way, scoring the winning touchdown on a one-foot sneak, engineering three marathon scoring marches, and completing 8 of 12 passes for 122 yards. Brown, the rookie All-American from Syracuse, scored two touchdowns, on four and nine-yard runs, and rushed for 109 yards in 21 carries.

The Browns scored first—in the opening period on an 80-yard, 12-play march in which only one pass was thrown.

Washington's first drive to the Browns' 32 ended as Sam Baker missed a field goal attempt. Another Redskin surge halted on the Browns' 17 as Warren Lahre intercepted a pass by Eddie LeBaron—who left the game in the second session with a slight concussion.

The third Washington threat ended in a 10-yard placekick by Baker, his seventh, as the invaders moved from their own 33 to the Browns' 4, 35 seconds before the half.

The 7-3 Cleveland edge faded as O'Connell's pass on the first play of the third period fell into the arms of Washington's Chuck Drazenovich, veteran fullback from Penn State, on the Browns' 23.

Three plays later rookie halfback Ed Sutton skirted right end for eight yards and the counter which put Washington ahead 10-7.

Right there coach Brown, who had been playing "em close to his vest with a ground attack, pulled out all the stops and took to the airways. O'Connell hit end Darrell Brewster with passes for 14, 15 and 11 yards, then tossed a 14-yarder to Preston Carpenter before calling on Jim Brown for his nine-yard scoring jaunt. The drive covered 73 yards in 11 plays.

Lou Groza, who has booted seven field goals this season, missed one from the 27 a few minutes later, but the Browns broke loose for a 10—play 65-yard scoring march to open the fourth period.

Carpenter, on an end-around play, wheeled 39 yards to the Washington 26. Brown made it to the eight in three bangs at the line, and O'Connell eased over from the one-foot line to put it on ice.

With six minutes to play Kenny Konz booted a line-drive punt to Washington's Bert Zagers, formerly of Michigan State. Zagers, who last week had the season's longest scoring punt return of 76 yards against New York, gathered the ball in on the Redskins' 44 and streaked 56 yards without being touched to make it 21-17. After the kickoff the Browns ate up the almost six minutes with a ground attack which reached the 15 as the game ended.

Pro football's 30-year-old "man with the golden arm"—San Francisco's Y. A. Tittle—today reflected on an opinion he expressed before the 1957 National Football League season began.

Speaking about a club that was experimenting at quarterback with former Michigan State star Earl Morrall and John Brodie, the outstanding rookie from Stanford, Tittle said: "With all these young quarterbacks around I just hope I can make the ball club."

Today, Morrall is pitching 'em for Pittsburgh, Brodie rides the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

And among the more surprised persons is "Precision Paul" Brown, coach of the club.

Following Sunday's come-from-behind 21-17 win over Washington's Redskins for a 5-1 record at the season's halfway mark, Brown declared:

Circleville Next for WHS

Passing Practice Set for Monday

The Lions will work on offense primarily at Monday evening's practice for the Circleville game. Coach Fred Domenico said the emphasis will be on passing—and that will be a switch, because the Lions have stuck pretty close to straight football in their previous games.

Domenico noted that the Lions completed four of nine passes against Hilliards last Friday night as a part of their offense that brought them a 26 to 13 victory, their fourth in eight games this season.

The Lions coaching staff agreed that the Lions played their best game of the season at Hilliards. Special commendation was heaped on the line, especially the defensive line, which held Hilliards to minus yardage until well along in the second period.

The coaches studied the movies of the Hilliards game Sunday and will show them to the squad Monday after supper.

Coach Domenico said neither the coaching staff nor the boys are taking Friday night's game with Tigers at Circleville Friday night lightly.

He pointed out that the Tigers and Lions are old and bitter rivals and that this is the last game of the regular schedule (the Lions have a playoff of the postponed Wilmington game Nov. 15) as he said "Circleville will go all out to win this one."

The WHS squad came out of the Hilliards game in good shape, both physically and mentally. There was little doubt that they will be "up" for the Circleville game after having won two in a row.

Rookie Jon Arnett went 98 yards for Los Angeles with the opening kickoff but three field goals by George Blanda and a 43-yard run with a recovered fumble by Dick Zucco gave the Bears their victory.

The Eagles picked up 17 points in the first 10 minutes and continued to romp against the Cards all afternoon.

Probably not, but here is a team that has won 46 straight games, yet appears to be simply begging to get beaten. Two weeks ago the powerful Sooners eked out a one-point decision over Colorado. Last Saturday, they managed to scrape by Kansas State, a team that had won just two of its previous six games, 13-0.

This week, Oklahoma goes against Missouri, which warmed up to its task by polishing off Colorado, 9-6, last Saturday. The Tigers know they have the ammunition, they know Oklahoma is vulnerable and they know they'll wind up in the Orange Bowl if they win the game. It should be interesting.

Then there is the case of Texas A&M, the No. 1 team in the country in last week's Associated Press poll. The Aggies are the defending Southwest Conference champions, have gone through seven games unscathed and certainly rank as heavy favorites to get the hot spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Yet their total winning margin in their last four games has been three touchdowns. It was by a slim extra point that the Aggies licked Arkansas, 7-6, last Saturday. Presumably, Arkansas was the roughest outfit on their schedule. But in that league, you never can tell. This week, it's Southern Methodist, then Rice and Texas.

The only one of the big conferences that appears to be all settled is the Pacific Coast, and that's because there are more teams ineligible.

Having beaten all three other eligibles, Oregon already is making reservations for the trip to Pasadena for the first time since 1920.

BIG 10—Ohio State, which got off to a bad start, has developed into the heavy choice to win the title and get the Rose Bowl bid.

ATLANTIC COAST Conference—North Carolina State appears to be the class of the league since Georgia Tech punctured Duke's bubble. But NC State is in bad with the NCAA and can't play in the Orange Bowl. So Duke still is the favorite.

SOUTHEASTERN Conference—Since Auburn, the leader, also is on the NCAA's black list and can't play in the Sugar Bowl, Mississippi, Mississippi State and Tennessee are scrambling for the runner-up spot and the Sugar Bowl bid. Right now, Ole Miss, with a 3-0 record, is in the best spot.

IVY LEAGUE—Princeton heads the league, but still has to play two toughies, Yale and Dartmouth. The title probably will be decided on Nov. 23 when Princeton and Dartmouth clash.

SOUTHERN—Defending champion West Virginia has finished its conference schedule and shows a 3-0 mark. But WVI has 4-0 and still has two loop games to go.

SKYLINE CONFERENCE—Utah, which sends its aerial circus against Army this week, is way out front with a 4-1 league record.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN Conference—Idaho State practically in.

MISSOURI VALLEY Conference—Houston needs to win only one of its two remaining games to clinch its second straight title.

Only 5 Major Teams Remain Undefeated

NEW YORK—Only five of the nation's major schools remained on football's unbeaten, untied list today.

There are still 30 altogether in the nation but the list of the majors was cut nearly half by defeats of Notre Dame and Texas Western and ties by Dartmouth and Iowa. Surviving are Texas A&M, Oklahoma, Auburn, Arizona State of Tempe and Drake.

Cleveland Browns Again Perch Atop Pro Grid Listing

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Well, there are the Cleveland Browns perched proudly atop the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

And among the more surprised persons is "Precision, P, a u l" Brown, coach of the club.

Following Sunday's come-from-behind 21-17 win over Washington's Redskins for a 5-1 record at the season's halfway mark, Brown declared:

"Frankly, I'm surprised we've done as well as we have. I never thought we'd be on top at this point in the season."

Last year the Browns had a 5-7 record—Brown's only losing season in 11 years of pro ball.

In reply to a remark that "it looks like you're gonna win it all," Brown shuddered and said:

"You may be right, and I hope you are. But we've got to play one game at a time. There are too many good clubs around to start thinking about championships at the beginning of November. Don't forget, Pittsburgh can beat us for the lead if the Steelers can beat us next Sunday."

But, rated off Sunday's conquest over the Redskins—just a week after Washington had eunched the New York Giants out of a tie for the top spot—the Browns might be hard to catch. In previous games the defense has starred for Cleveland, but this time the offense—with quarterback Tommy O'Connell and fullback Jim Brown in the scintillating roles—stole the show.

Connell went all the way, scoring the winning touchdown on a one-foot sneak, engineering three marathon scoring marches, and completing 8 of 12 passes for 122 yards. Brown, the rookie All-American from Syracuse, scored two touchdowns, on four and nine-yard runs, and rushed for 109 yards in 21 carries.

The Browns scored first—in the opening period on an 80-yard, 12-play march in which only one pass was thrown.

Washington's first drive to the Browns' 32 ended as Sam Baker missed a field goal attempt. Another Redskin surge halted on the Browns' 17 as Warren Lahr intercepted a pass by Eddie LeBaron—who left the game in the second session with a slight concussion.

The third Washington threat ended in a 10-yard placekick by Baker, his seventh, as the invaders moved from their own 33 to the Browns' 4, 35 seconds before the half.

The 7-3 Cleveland edge faded as O'Connell's pass on the first play of the third period fell into the arms of Washington's Chuck Dravenovich, veteran fullback from Penn State, on the Browns' 23. Three plays later rookie halfback Ed Sutton skirted right end for eight yards and the counter which put Washington ahead 10-7.

Right there coach Brown, who had been playing 'em close to his vest with a ground attack, pulled out all the stops and took to the airways. O'Connell hit end Darrell Brewster with passes for 14, 15 and 11 yards, then tossed a 14-yarder to Preston Carpenter before calling on Jim Brown for his nine-yard scoring jaunt. The drive covered 73 yards in 11 plays.

Lou Groza, who has booted seven field goals this season, missed one from the 27 a few minutes later, but the Browns broke loose for a 10-7 lead for 65-yard scoring march to open the fourth period. Carpenter, on an end-around play, wheeled 39 yards to the Washington 26. Brown made it to the eight in three bangs at the line, and O'Connell eased over from the one-foot line to put it on ice.

With six minutes to play Kenny Konz booted a line-drive punt to Washington's Bert Zagers, formerly of Michigan State. Zagers, who last week had the season's longest scoring punt return of 76 yards against New York, gathered the ball in on the Redskins' 44 and streaked 56 yards without being touched to make it 21-17. After the kickoff the Browns ate up the almost six minutes with a ground attack which reached the 15 as the game ended.

Pro football's 30-year-old "man with the golden arm" — San Francisco's Y. A. Tittle — today reflected on an opinion he expressed before the 1957 National Football League season began.

Speaking about a club that was experimenting at quarterback with former Michigan State star Earl

Penn State Fakery Stops West Virginia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Penn State grididers were a bunch of fakers Saturday. The top sleight of hand guy was reckless Richie Lucas. The sophomore quarterback's magic had West Virginia tackling the wrong man again and again and he twice passed for TDs in the 27-6 victory with Mountaineer defenses looking for a running play, leaving receivers all alone in the end zone. Lucas also turned a fake punt into a 19-yard gain.

Arnold Palmer Wins San Diego Tourney

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Victory by Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., in the $20,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament Sunday was his fourth win of the year.

He finished with a 72-hole score of 271, 17 under par for the 6,800-yard Mission Valley course.

Don Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio scored 276 and won $916.66.

Circleville Next for WHS

Passing Practice Set for Monday

The Lions will work on offense primarily at Monday evening's practice for the Circleville game. Coach Fred Domenico said the emphasis will be on passing—and that will be a switch, because the Lions have stuck pretty close to straight football in their previous games.

Today, Morrall is pitching 'em for Pittsburgh. Brodie rides the bench and Tittle, a 10-year NFL veteran, has led the 49ers to within striking distance of their first conference title.

Title directed all five scoring thrusts against Detroit Sunday, the last a 41-yard pass to R. C. Owens for the clincher with only 11 seconds remaining for a 35-31 victory over the Lions. That left the 49ers all alone atop the Western Division with a 5-1 mark. The Lions and Baltimore are tied for second at 3-3.

The Lions coaching staff agreed that the Lions played their best game of the season at Hilliards. Special commendation was heaped on the line, especially the defensive line, which held Hilliards to minus yardage until well along in the second period.

The coaches studied the movies of the Hilliards game Sunday and will show them to the squad Monday after supper.

Coach Domenico said neither the coaching staff nor the boys are taking Friday night's game with Tigers at Circleville Friday night lightly.

He pointed out that the Tigers and Lions are old and bitter rivals and that this is the last game of the regular schedule (the Lions have a playoff of the postponed Wilmington game Nov. 15) as he said "Circleville will go all out to win this one."

The WHS squad came out of the Hilliards game in good shape, both physically and mentally. There was little doubt that they will be "up" for the Circleville game after having won two in a row.

Carl Smith is back in action on the gridiron with Tennessee's Vols all afternoon.

The game, scheduled for 1:30 p.m., EST, will be televised by NBC as part of the NCAA series.

Final chapter of a nice vacation. We headed south toward the border, this section is farm land. The French farmers do a neat job of farming. The cleanliness and neatness of the farms presents many beautiful views. Dairying is predominant. In many cases the house and barns are built joining.

We crossed the border back into the U. S. A. about mid-afternoon. As we drove through the mountains in northern Vermont and then in New Hampshire I never saw a more beautiful sight. Autumn colors were rampant and stretched as far as the eye could see.

Flu Hits Teachers; Wilson School Closed

Influenza diminished somewhat among the school children of the city and county over the weekend, but it picked new victims and claimed 15 teachers and one janitor. Because of three teachers and one janitor being absent Monday morning at Wilson school, that school was closed by Miami Trace superintendent W. A. Boyer. Absenteeism there Friday was 21 per cent of the enrollment.

"When the teachers and other workers go out," Boyer said, "that will close a school more quickly than student's illness. The Fayette County and State Health departments advise to keep the students together so long as adequate administrative help is available."

Boyer listed 12 teachers absent from Miami Trace schools. Absent from Marion was Mrs. Neoma Mills, with no replacement available. Madison Mills had two teachers absent, Mrs. Lula Thomas and Mrs. Lauragene Ray. One replacement was available at Madison Mills.

Bloomingburg had two teachers absent, but had secured replacements for both. Absent were Mrs. G. H. Biddle and Mrs. Howard Foster. The four absent at Wilson were Mrs. Clarabelle Patton, Mrs. Georganna Stewart, Wilson Webb and Walter Paul. Chaffin had one teacher away from her desk, Mrs. Hazel Brackney, and no replacement. Wayne had two teachers out, but two replacements. Absent were Mrs. Willard Judy and Mrs. Dale Eakins. Jeffersonville was without the services of teacher Ralph Fordyce Monday, and no replacement had been secured.

CITY SUPERINTENDENT W. A. Smith announced that three of his teachers were absent and that no replacements had been secured. Away from their classes were Miss Ruth Teeters, Mrs. William Limes and G. B. Vance.

With only two exceptions in the Miami Trace system, pupil attendance was improved over last Friday. The two schools which reported absentee increases over last Friday were Bookwalter with 29.5 per cent absent Monday, an increase from Friday's 20.5 per cent, and Eber with 25.6 absent Monday, an increase over Friday's 20 per cent absent.

Miami Trace schools showing improved attendance since Friday were: New Martinsburg, 18.1 per cent absent Monday (37.5 absent last Friday); Staunton, 29 per cent absent Monday (31.6 per cent absent last Friday); Bloomingburg 18.1 per cent absent Monday (26 per cent absent Friday); Jeffersonville, 21 per cent absent Monday (23 per cent absent Friday); Millidgeville, 10.9 per cent absent Monday (21.5 absent last Friday); Wayne, 13 per cent absent Monday, (20 per cent absent last Friday); Madison Mills, 9.4 per cent absent.

Three Injured In Accident; Driver Arrested

Three Other Auto Mishaps Reported Over Weekend

Three people were injured and one driver was arrested in an auto accident on Palmer Rd., 3½ miles south of here, at 1:30 a. m. Sunday. It was one of four auto mishaps reported over the weekend.

Treated in the emergency room at Memorial Hospital after the mishap were:

Harry Davis, 60, of Route 3, who sustained head and forehead injuries, and Ramona Cooley, 25, of Dayton, right knee cuts.

Both were passengers in an auto driven by Carl Cooley, 34, of Dayton, who was treated by a physician for knee and head cuts.

COOLEY told Sheriff Orland Hays he was headed south on Palmer Rd. when another car came around a bend forcing him onto the berm, where he hit a stump, throwing the car out of control.

Pleading guilty in Municipal Court Monday to reckless operation, he was fined $15 and costs.

Frederick Wilson Bradfield, 27, of Louisville, Ky., told city police he skidded on a wet street about 11:40 p. m. Saturday, causing him to hit the rear of a car driven by Willard James Mitchell, 36, of 728 Eastern Ave. Mitchell's westbound car was stopped at a red light on Clinton Ave. at Oakland.

An auto driven by Donald R. Burgess, 24, of Columbus, collided with the rear of a stopped auto operated by Larry L. Grill, 19, of Cincinnati, on Market St. at North St. about 8:20 p. m. Sunday.

Virginia, New Jersey Set For Gubernatorial Elections

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New Jersey and Virginia elect governors Tuesday as voters in half a dozen states cast ballots in off-year elections.

Those two states and Kentucky also will elect their legislatures, Pennsylvania and New Jersey will fill vacancies in the U. S. House of Representatives, and mayors will be chosen in New York City, Pittsburgh and a number of other cities.

Advance indications were that the Democrats would win both House seats at stake, but several factors added interest to the races. Racial issues may be significant.

IN NEW JERSEY, Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner, whose election in 1953 ended a 10-year string of Republican governors, is seeking reelection in a race that could boost him or drop him from consideration for his party's national ticket in 1960. Opposing him is State Sen. Malcolm S. Forbes, a magazine publisher.

In Virginia, Republican Ted Dalton, a state senator and GOP national committeeman who vainly tried for the governorship four years ago, is running this time against Democrat J. Lindsay Almond Jr. Almond supports the "massive resistance" to integration urged by his party's leaders in the state. Dalton has called for a locally administered pupil assignment plan which he contends would better withstand court tests and still permit only token integration.

Burglars got $135 in cash from three offices ransacked at 321-3 E. Court St. some time Saturday night.

The cash was taken from a purse and a cash box in a suite occupied by Dr. Robert U. Anderson and Dr. Philip E. Binzel, physicians.

Other offices ransacked in the same building were those occupied by the Federal Land Bank Farm Loan Agency and the Nationwide Life Insurance Co.

POLICE CHIEF D. Vaiden Long said he doubted that burglars were looking for narcotics, since other offices besides the doctors' were searched. "However, I would think so in many cases of this sort," he commented.

Police Patrolman Herschel Taylor said that entry to the building was apparently made through an unlocked back door. Pry bars had been used to break into the physicians' offices and the insurance office. The Farm Loan suite was entered through a stairway from the insurance office.

While the Saturday crowd was around normal, the Sunday attendance taxed the capacity of the two large rooms, and there was an unusual display of shotguns. There was a great deal of buying and selling of these weapons because of the nearness of the hunting season.

In addition to great numbers of guns of all kinds, many Indian reliquies and a wide range of other old and interesting articles were on display.

Probably the rarest gun offered in the show was a combination bronze tomahawk and match lock pistol, apparently of English or French make, and extremely rare. It was priced at $100.

Before he goes before the Assembly Tuesday, he must put together a Cabinet acceptable to the parties pledging him support.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in January, with time and place as yet undecided.

Annie Oakley, the sharpshooter, could perform by pistol shots the spots on a handful of playing cards tossed in the air.

Flu Hits Teachers; Wilson School Closed

Influenza diminished somewhat at among the school children of the city and county over the weekend, but it picked new victims and claimed 15 teachers and one janitor. Because of three teachers and one janitor being absent Monday, morning at Wilson school, that school was closed by Miami Trace superintendent W. H. Boyer. Absenteeism there Friday was 21 per cent of the enrollment.

"When the teachers and other workers go out," Boyer said, "that will close a school more quickly than student's illness. The Fayette County and State Health departments advise to keep the students together so long as adequate administrative help is available."

Boyer listed 12 teachers absent from Miami Trace schools. Absent from Marion was Mrs. Neoma Mills, with no replacement available. Madison Mills had two teachers absent, Mrs. Lula Thomas and Mrs. Lauragene Ray. One replacement was available at Madison Mills.

Bloomingburg had two teachers absent, but had secured replacements for both. Absent were Mrs. G. H. Biddle and Mrs. Howard Foster. The four absent at Wilson were Mrs. Clarabelle Patton, Mrs. Georganna Stewart, Wilson Webb and Walter Paul. Chaffin had one teacher away from her desk, Mrs. Hazel Brackney, and no replacement. Wayne had two teachers out, but two replacements. Absent were Mrs. Willard Judy and Mrs. Dale Eakins. Jeffersonville was without the services of teacher Ralph Fordyce Monday, and no replacement had been secured.

CITY SUPERINTENDENT W. A. Smith announced that three of his teachers were absent and that no replacements had been secured. Away from their classes were Miss Ruth Teeters, Mrs. William Limes and G. B. Vance.

With only two exceptions in the Miami Trace system, pupil attendance was improved over last Friday. The two schools which reported absentees increases over last Friday were Bookwalter with 29.5 per cent absent Monday, an increase from Friday's 20.5 per cent, and Eber with 25.6 absent Monday, an increase over Friday's 20 per cent absent.

Miami Trace schools showing improved attendance since Friday were: New Martinsburg, 18.1 per cent absent Monday (37.5 absent last Friday); Staunton, 29 per cent absent Monday (31.6 per cent absent last Friday); Bloomingburg, 18.1 per cent absent Monday (26 per cent absent Friday); Jeffersonville, 21 per cent absent Monday (23 per cent absent Friday); Milledgeville, 10.9 per cent absent Monday (21.5 absent last Friday); Wayne, 13 per cent absent Monday, (20 per cent absent last Friday); Madison Mills, 9.4 per cent absent
